Collaborative Digital Experience (Private MOOC)

About this course

Cohort driven. Self-paced. Any device, anytime & anyplace.

This course will help individuals, of all levels in an organization, fundamentally change the way they communicate on a day to day basis in order to be heard and influence action when communicating their ideas, point of view and information back on the job.

Backed by brain science and decades of research, our easy-to-use communication framework (SCIPAB®) and intensive training methods will help individuals to deeply—yet quickly—think through a sound and compelling rationale for what they want to say and why; a process to ensure their audience cares and will see value; and, skills to say it with a confident and open presence.

As a result of this course, individuals will think and speak with greater ease, clarity and impact enabling them to make better decisions faster, execute with greater acuity, and focus on the right things each and every day.
